The property is located on the outskirts just 5 minutes walk to the town of Tolox. The Spa in Tolox and Its Remarkable Benefits: Healing waters Beyond its charming white-washed buildings and quaint streets, this spa offers an oasis of relaxation and rejuvenation, drawing visitors from all corners of the globe. The Tolox Spa boasts a history that dates back to Roman times when the healing properties of its thermal waters were first discovered. These mineral-rich waters are believed to have therapeutic effects on various health conditions, making it a popular destination for those in search of natural healing remedies. Over the centuries, the spa has been developed and modernized, but it retains its traditional charm and commitment to holistic well-being. One of the primary attractions of the Tolox Spa is its thermal waters. These geothermal springs are naturally heated by the Earth's internal processes, and they are rich in minerals such as sulfur, magnesium, and calcium. These minerals are known for their healing properties, and when absorbed through the skin in a warm bath, they can work wonders for various ailments.
