Vue d'ensemble:This beautiful property has preserved the natural beauty of the mountains in which it is nestled adding fruit trees, flowers and other plants that create a small "botanical garden," leaving the house as an essential, modern and functional space that provides a unique combination. The house has been recently renovated and consists of a covered entrance porch, a fully equipped kitchen open to the living room, a full bathroom with shower, and a bright double bedroom. The lower floor originally was an almacen which has now been converted into a second bedroom with a sitting area. The entrances between the second bedroom and the house are independent. The property also has a lovely barbecue area , storage room and a private pool located on the highest part of the plot, offering spectacular views. Spaces like this no longer exist as the plots in the area are fully built. Completely fenced. Ideal for singles, couples, and even small families looking for a naturally preserved location without sacrificing design and comfort.
